Why a Managed Device Program?

Options

• 1:1 BYOD – students can bring in any device and connect to our network – we deliver software using virtualisation. Extremely expensive and very slow.

• 1:1 BYOD anything – no software provided by the school. Lack of consistency, inequality in access and manageability. No support from techs.

• Chromebooks – cheap but very limiting in regards to software. Poor reports around life of netbooks and sturdiness.

• 1:1 Managed device – standard windows software (all edustar plus school owned software) on each student computer (St Helena Secondary College) – our 1:1 model – with touch & stylus
Why the Lenovo Yoga?

- Touch screen
- Flexibility (yoga)
- Sturdiness – hinges
- Pen input
To pen or not to pen...

“The type of computer input is a very important consideration for thinking and student learning. A digital pen stimulates people to write more nonlinguistic content (diagrams, symbols), compared with a keyboard interface or non-digital pen. Studies have shown that expressing more nonlinguistic content directly facilitates 9-38% improvements in thinking and reasoning about math, science, and everyday tasks.”

Peripherals

Kensington Virtuoso Stylus - Dark Purple
Tablets are great fun to use until you realise that every time you touch one to navigate or type, you're just adding another smudge to the tablet screen. The fact is, no matter how clean your hands are they naturally emit oils. And oils and tablet screens don't get along. Before you know it, your screen is covered with greasy and oils that not only make it difficult to see the screen but also attract dirt and grime that can permanently scratch and damage your tablet screen. Fortunately, there's a simple solution that not only keeps your screen clean, but also adds accuracy and comfort. It's the Kensington Stylus

Gleneagles Secondary College Acceptable Use of Technology Agreement

Please Review and Agree

Why have an Agreement?
At Gleneagles Secondary College we are striving to develop a learning community of students, staff and parents. Our technology programs, particularly those involving computers, provide students, teachers and educational support staff with powerful tools that expand learning opportunities.

At Gleneagles, community members may use a variety of available technologies for appropriate personal use outside the classroom, although their primary purpose is to support learning.

With these opportunities comes responsibility for all members of our community to interact with technologies in a way that is consistent with our school values. All members of the Gleneagles community are expected to show respect and sound judgment whenever they interact with technologies. Any actions which conflict with our core values – particularly those which harass, denigrate or defame other people – are a breach of this Agreement.
